TEACHING PHILOSOPHY

Teaching has always been a passion for me. I have a love for learning and instilling that love for learning in my students. I believe that each child is a gift from God, placed on this earth with their individual gifts to share with others. As an educator, I am responsible to recognize, develop, and encourage each of my students to take their gift to the maximum of their abilities. I feel blessed to have the opportunity to spend 7+ hours a day molding, educating, and inspiring each child to want to learn, while still valuing and building upon their individual differences. I want my classroom to be a place where each student feels safe, important, valued, and free to explore, ask, and share his or her thoughts. By making my classroom a safe, fun, and well-managed place for my students, I would hope that they will enjoy coming to my classroom and learning something new every day. I feel that all children are different and require specific attention and affection for them to flourish. I will strive to be that for each of my students; an educator who loves each child that walks in her door and gives each of them not only an education, but also a passion to learn and a love for Christ.
